Description \(revised\)

Found by Starchasers Meteorite Team Jan, 2007, Midwest, USA. Here we have up for auction a unclassified Rare Mesosiderite Stony iron meteorite, a 72 gram slice, a beautiful specimen to add to your Museum, or private collection. The stony Chondritic matrix in this meteorite has beautiful chondrules. Mesosiderites are polymict breccias, they are composed of fragments of unrelated rocks, made of nickel-iron metal and silicate rock, they are thought to form in differentiated asteroids where the silicate mantle and iron core become mixed by impacts with other asteroids. SM-30 Magnetic Susceptibility Mean Log X = 4.83 - 5.40. We analyzed the magnetic Susceptibility of this meteorite on the outside, and on many slices, and end cuts and got a Mean log X of 4.83, as we cut into this meteorite closer to the center the magnetic Susceptibility became stronger with higher Fe/Ni iron nickel metal and gave us a mean log X of 5.40, with SM-30 contact readings of 196 - 496 ! . We guarantee all meteorites we sell are authentic, and we offer a 10 day money back satisfaction guarantee minus shipping cost,so bid with confidence. The stony iron meteorites are selling for around $2.00 - $5.00 per gram here is your chance to get a great deal at the auction. ILLinois buyers must add 7.75% sales tax to the final auction price. Buyer is responsible for shipping charges, and packaging is free. We accept Paypal, cashier checks,money orders,wire transfers,and checks (checks take around 10 days to clear before shipping out meteorite). If you have any questions or would like to see this meteorite before bidding contact us. Please check out our other Ebay auctions as we have more great auctions coming up including more slices of this beautiful meteorite. Good luck bidding and have fun at the auction!
