Item specifics

Classified: UNCO Martian Lherzolitic Peridotite

For those of you who know your Martian Meteorites, this polished 41 gram "Provisional" Lherzolitic Peridotite is a must for your collection and/or future resale. This fine specimen exhibits a cream-colored fusion crust and impact & shock metamorphism of olivines from a yellowish-orange to reddish-black & blueish-black. Feldspars are augite & pigeonite and the metals are chromite & titanium. The main mass of 1.069kg, is among the first Martian meteorites recently recovered from a Western Colorado strewn field.

At $1,000.00 per gram as a "Provisional," the value of this piece is certain to increase dramatically with it's "Classification" as an "UNCO Lherzolitic Peridotite," currently in process. Reference: NWA 1950.

UNCO will also soon release several specimens of Martian Basalt Shergottite, Lherzolitic Shergottite, exact pairings of the famous Chassignite, along with an exact pairing to the amazing AHL 84001 Orthopyroxenite. In addition, we will be releasing the "first-of-its-kind," a Martian Calc-Carbonate (Limestone) with fossilized (pyritized) ammonites & nummulites. This Martian Limestone will certainly be in great demand for your research center or your personal collection. NOTE: For those who may question or doubt the plausibility of a Martian Limestone, please explain how a terrestrial limestone would exhibit all attributes of a Martian Meteorite; ie, fusion crust, impact & shock-melt metamorphism, and evenly distributed rare metals, such as chromite and/or titanium. Those that are keeping up with the current Martian Spirit & Opportunity Rover missions, and wish to have a serious discourse on Martian mineralogy & biology, I will be happy to chat with you.

This specimen will come with a "Certificate of Authenticity & Provisional Certification" from UNCO Meteorites & the Uncompahgre Meteoritic Association Cooperative. The specimen will also be shipped with the greatest of care and insured to its "fair market value." Your satisfaction will always be 100% guaranteed, or your money returned.

Seller assumes all responsibility for this listing.
